

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

We over here at Clarkson got quite a kick out of reading the Racquette's (10/6/61) spread on WNTC, known to the Golden Knights as the "other station." To set the record straight, I feel that I must correct some of the items in the fable.

First, your answer to the question: "Why the change at WNTC?" is completely erroneous. Clarkson College students, as well as WNTC, know full well that WNTC was forced to improve their quality as recently as January, 1961. This task, which had been evaded for the past few years, was pressed upon WNTC by Miracle Engineering Enterprises, an independent group of Clarkson students who, among other things, were getting sick of lack of quality at WNTC, the product of a top technical school. This station has built in less than one year, at the expense of the staff members, equipment which performs better than WNTC's with their budget of over $700 per year.

This item on the budget brings up my second point: WNTC stands for Northern Twin Colleges. There is only one small trouble here: WNTC is listened to in majority in only one of the Colleges, SUCEP. However, Clarkson is footing the bill for WNTC.

I trust that this letter will shed some light on the true situation. We invite SUCEP students to visit WCCT on October 14 and 15, Parent's Weekend. You can come to Men's Residence, Room N-129, to see the well engineered and well programmed station of the Clarkson Engineers, WCCT.
